Part-time students almost included

By Bruce MacKenzie

The Senate has finalized the regulations for the new Senate elections. At its Nov.6 meeting the Senate accepted with only minor changes the report of the ad hoc committee on Senate Procedures.

The only points debated in the eight-page report were the same ones that caused problems at the last meeting. These points were the complicated definitions of eligible staff and faculty members and, of course, the problem of part-time students.

After the first problem was settled, there was a long discussion of the second. Patrick Skillings, one of the two students on Senate, proposed an amendment to the report to allow part-time students to take part in the elections. For a time it seemed that the amendment might get through, but it was finally defeated.

What emerged from the debate on Skillings' motion was a new series of suggestions to solve the problem. The most hopeful seems to be that put forward by Dr. John Dewey, Dean of Academic Affairs. Dewey recommended that the Senate consider appointing part-time students under Section (2) (1) of the new Universities Act. This section allows the Senate to appoint new Senators as it thinks fit 'from time to time.'

Included in the report was a better deal for part-time students. This part of the report also recommends that the Act be altered to leave the criteria for students up to the AMS and GSS to decide.

Whether this proposal will sway Mrs. Dailly is hard to tell, especially in light of a series of letters between Mrs. Dailly and John Goudy, president of the Mature Students Club.

In the letters, which were included with the committee's report, Mrs. Dailly seems to be quite firm in her refusal to alter the Act to allow the part-time students into the elections.

In other business, the Senate heard a proposal from Dr. Howard Petch, president-designate of the university. Petch's two-part recommendations was for selection procedures for the posts of Vice-President and Dean of Arts and Sciences. Both Dr. Steven Jennings (Vice-President) and Professor Jean-Paul Vinay (Dean of Arts and Sciences) will leave their posts on June 30, 1975. Petch is concerned about present selection procedures and hopes the interim plan will serve as a model for later permanent procedures.

The main feature of the Petch plan is greater faculty input to the selection committee. Petch feels it is necessary that the faculty have faith in the people who hold such responsible and influential positions.

Summary of report to Senate

The following is a summary of the main provisions of the report of the Senate ad hoc committee on procedures.

AMS booklet nearly quashed

A booklet designed to interest employers in UVic graduates was almost quashed by Ron Ferry, UVic Registrar because it looked too much like an official University publication.

The booklet was prepared by Jim Horne as part of a joint program by the AMS and Canada Manpower. It was done with the help of all the heads of departments, edited by UVic's public relations man, Maurice Cownden, and designed by Jim Bennett, a professional graphic artist who designs all the University publications.

Apparently they did their job too well because Ferry demanded that the booklet be stamped 'Produced by the Alma Mater Society'. Ferry also objected to what he called a 'gross error' in the publication. The various departments in the Faculty of Arts and Science are listed alphabetically under two headlines, Faculty of Arts and Faculty of Science. According to Horne this was done simply as a matter of convenience for employers. Horne said an employer interested in hiring an Arts graduate wouldn't want to go through all the Science courses to try and pick out the areas of study his prospective employee had engaged in and vice versa. Horne denied he was part of a plot to overthrow the present joint Faculty of Arts and Science.

Ferry further objected to the exclusion of the Faculty of Education. Horne said the Education people had their own hiring set up and didn't need to go out and stimulate on-campus recruiting because it was already going on.

Comment

A·M·S· referendum

The Alma Mater Society is holding a referendum to try and change its constitution. The referendum must get two-thirds of ten percent of the eligible voters out to approve the changes.

Considering that this includes all registered students, even the part-time students, this means that approximately 600 students have to come out in support of the referendum to see it pass, that is if the opposition to the referendum is minimal. If there is opposition, the referendum must pass by a two-thirds majority. With the recent trend of less than 10 per cent of the voters bothering to cast their ballots it looks like the referendum is sure to go down to defeat.

The constitution that we are operating on now is a product of the '60s when student interest and student involvement was high. It was an attempt to make student government more representative and to see that everyone had a voice in the decision making process.

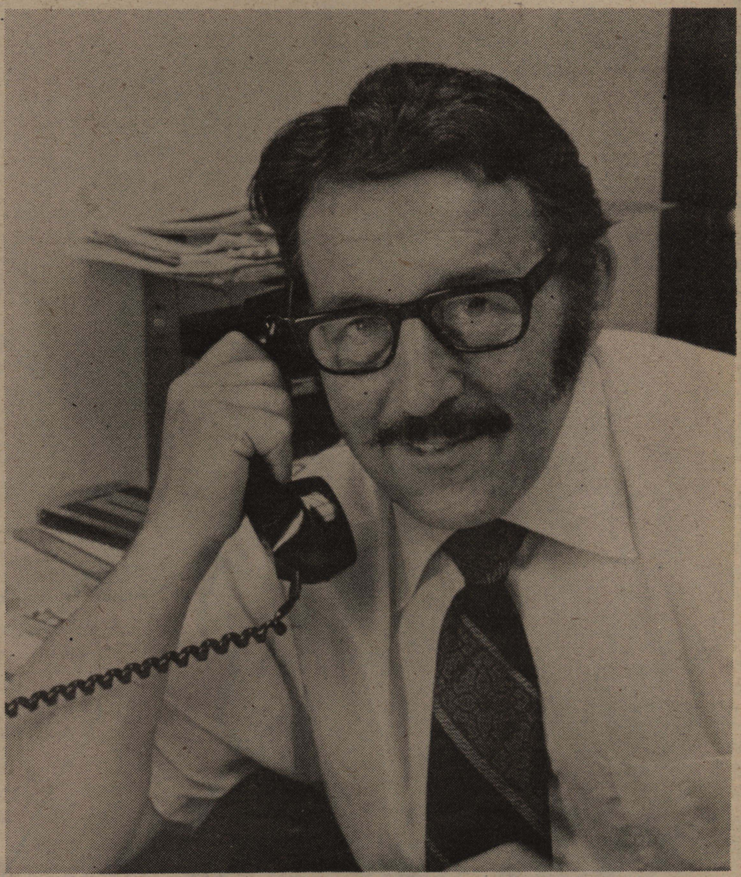
This new constitution of Kirk Patterson's is an attempt to cope with a time when there isn't much interest in student politics. It cuts the number of available positions in half and forgets about the faculty and graduate student positions which haven't been filled recently anyway.

The new constitution forces aspiring politicans to get 25 signatures rather than just five. It defines the responsibilities of the executive officers a little more clearly. It also makes it easier to get rid of a politican who isn't doing his job or is doing it badly.

One difference between the new constitution and the old one is that the new one is easier to change, so that come a time that students want a greater or more representative say in student politics it won't be as hard to get it. The main difference is that the last constitutional change was made for the students, this one is being made for the politicians.

The crunch, however, is going to be that even if this new constitution passes the referendum stage then there must be a general meeting of the society at which a quorum of ten percent of the society members must be present, about 600 people, and two-thirds of those present must approve the constitution. Patterson , however, is going to hold the general meeting in the Commons Block and he figures he can get enough people from residence to make up a quorum.

One thing the new referendum will do is make it easier for the student activity fees to be raised. Whether this constitution goes through or not there will be an attempt to raise the fees anyway, but the new constitution will allow the fees to be raised if there is a five per cent turn out or better and half the voters approve the referendum to change the fees. The old consitution demanded a ten per cent turn out and two-thirds approval. If this referendum goes down to defeat then the fee referendum will likely go the same way.



General Manager says:

Subpub open Saturday soon

The Subpub will open Saturday nights on a trial basis beginning January 11th, according to AMS general manager Victor Allen.

The Student Union Building will also be opened Saturdays, during the day, on a trial basis as well. The cafeteria will remain closed, however, as part of an arrangement with the University Food Services. It is felt that there isn't enough business to warrant keeping two facilities open on the same day.

The SUB has been closed on Saturdays since September of last year as part of an austerity program. Instead of being open to the students, the building was rented out for wedding receptions and banquets, the revenue from this going into the general AMS funds. The building is being opened on Saturday in response to a number of complaints.

The Subpub is being opened up on Saturday night partly in hope of taking some of the pressure off the facility on Friday night. At the moment there are no plans to go to hard liquor on Saturday night. No plans have been made to open the pub Tuesday night or Thursday night either.

There will probably be entertainment at the Saturday night pub but no definite bookings have been made.

AMS

CONSTITUTIONAL REFORM SUMMARY

The Representative Assembly of the Alma Mater Society recently approved, unanimously, a proposed new A.M.S. Constitution. To take affect this Constitution must be approved by:

(a) a two thirds vote in a referendum in which 10 per cent of the A.M.S. members vote. This will be held on November 26; then

(b) a two thirds vote of approval at a general meeting of the A.M.S. where at least 10 per cent of the members are present. This meeting will be held on December 4.

It is recognized that many students do not feel that the A.M.S. is a viable organization. This is, at least in part, a valid assertion and one which we hope to correct by adopting a new constition. Constitutions outline the operational precedures to be followed by an organization and, hence, decide the effectiveness of the organization's attempts to serve its members. With the proposed new A.M.S. Constitution we are confident that the A.M.S. will be a truly effective student organization.

Following is a summary of the major changes proposed for the A.M.S. Constitution (complete copies are available in the S.U.B. office):

- a change from a two council system to a one coucil system: it is intended that this will eliminate the internal bickering in the A.M.S. and will bring all elected representatives directly into the decision-making process;

-a change from a 47 person council to a 23 person council: it is intended that this will increase the amount of competition for elected office which will, it is hoped, raise the calibre of council members;

-the duties of council members have been more sharply defined: in this way persons thinking of running for elected office will know more fully what their responsibilities will be if elected; also there be less overlap of duties between council members and, hence, a more efficient use of their time and energy;

- procedures for amending the Constitution have been made less stringent so as to allow the A.M.S. the direction which a Constitution can provide;

- proper procedures have been established so as to be able to effectively deal with council vacancies, dismissal of Council members, and summer meetings of council;

- a change in the fiscal year end from August 31 to May 31; this will allow the A.M.S. to manage its financial affairs in a more efficient and far-sighted manner.

Cheque hassles

It would be an exaggeration to say that all the Sub caf and Subpub employees were ready to walk out Friday if their paychecks weren't ready by 4 o'clock, but there is a good possibility that this might happen in the future if something isn't done.

The students who work in the pub and the caf (they're all students), are working part-time because they need the money to get through school. The work is frequently hectic and rarely rewarding. Most of them get minimum wage, $2.50 an hour. The students who work in the caf come in between classes and work pretty well non-stop. The students who work in the Subpub give up an evening to earn, on an average $12 to $15, and that isn't very much especially for a Friday night with all the noise and hassles they have to put up with.

All this is part of the job though, and most of them are willing to accept it. What is causing a problem is that they are never sure when they are going to be able to pick up their paycheck.

In the past the checks have been ready in the afternoon of the 15th and on the afternoon of the last day of the month although sometimes it was too late to cash them. You were payed for all the time on your time card up till then. The signing officers were supposed to come in after lunch so all the checks could be out before the banks were closed. It was recognized that students were operating on a limited budget and that it was essential to get them their checks as soon as possible. The present AMS general manager doesn't seem to agree with this. He seems to think that because the AMS has no legal obligation to pay on these days (according to the Labor Relations Act they have 8 days), then the students have no right to expect the check then. He was thinking of paying on the 16th and the 1st or even later.

Instead of making things harder for students, the general manager should be working on making things easier. The office staff could get the time cards a day earlier without too much trouble and if the general manager and two of the three signing officers could make arrangements to be at the general office by lunch time then the checks could be out by 1:30 or 2 o'clock. It wouldn't be that much trouble for the persons involved and it would prevent a lot of unhappiness and bad feeling among the students who work so hard in the pub and the caf.

Bottles only

And why isn't the pub serving wine by the glass any more?

A few weeks ago the pub started to serve wine, by the bottle only. Since then complaints have started to drift into the Martlet. A prof mentioned that he used to stop in at the pub for dinner and a glass of wine. He said he wasn't going to buy and drink a bottle of wine before a class and now he can't have a glass with his dinner.

How many girls, or for that matter guys who don't like beer, don't want to put away a whole bottle of wine when they take a break from the library. What is, perhaps, more important is that some of these people might buy the bottle of wine anyway and risk an impaired driving charge on the way home.

The argument that other pubs don't do it doesn't hold because the "Crown and I" serves wine by the glass, so do some of the other pubs. The argument that it is too much trouble for the staff doesn't hold either, it isn't that much extra work. The argument that the sparkling wines go flat has some merit but the still wines don't go flat and the sparkling wines could be sold by the glass until before closing and then the last of that bottle would be the last of the sparkling wine for that evening.

The pub should be for all the students not just for those who want to guzzle.

Important seat

Nominations for the two student seats on the Board of Governors close at 4:30 Friday November 22nd.

This is probably the most important election the students at this university can be involved in. This is the first time students will sit on the Board and it is essential that we get good representation.

Students on the Board can work not only to represent the students on specific issues but can help to influence the direction in which this university moves.

A great many of the most important decisions that are made on this campus are made at this level. In the past the Board has been not only impervious to student demands but in fact ignorant of the students thoughts and feelings on important issues. This position gives us some influence in an area that vitally concerns us.

It was no disappointment to find that this election is not receiving the publicity it should be; it was not even a surprise. The administration at this institution prefer to work in secret. Students on the Board are a threat to that secrecy.

It was also no surprise that the part-time students have been disenfranchised, but this is an issue that a student representative can bring up at a meeting of the Board of Governors.

The AMS and the students that sit on the Faculty, Departmental, and Senate committees can only do so much. Students on the Board of Governors can see that these people, your fellow students are represented. If you think you can do the job - run!

The letters to the editor are a vital part of the paper. We actively solicit any comment you might wish to make. Letters can be mailed to us or dropped off at the Martlet mail box (in front of the general office in the Student Union Building) or they can be dropped off at the Martlet office (also in the SUB). They must be signed but we will withhold your name on request. Please try and have all letters in by Monday noon. All letters become the property of the Martlet.

Dear Sir:

Now that the Uvic Telephone Directory has been published, would it not be a good idea to put it to good use? I think it would be beneficial if copies of the directory were fixed to the public pay phones around the campus as are the city directories.

I would think that since it is the Uvic telephone directory a person should have access to it when using the pay phones in the S.U.B. Library, or any of the other buildings. It may save a considerable lot of time, energy, and dimes if a person could single out Fred Smith in our own directory rather than trying to guess what street he lives on or his father's first name. It may even give a special advantage to the advertizers as well. (Perhaps B.C. Tel. would object to this point). I do not know of the right people to see of the channels to go through so I hope if this letter is printed the right people will act on it accordingly.

Yours truly,
Another Apathetic Student.

To The Editor and the University Community:

I agree with the protest of the UVic Women's Action Group against the sexist ads in the Student Directory. I am disturbed that they have not been taken seriously, as reported in The Daily Colonist and last week's Martlet. I believe they speak for a large number of people at UVic whose voice is not usually heard.

I have discovered this myself because I wrote a petition of protest and am currently getting signatures. I urge other staff and students who object to this advertising to let Mr. Patterson know through letters, phone calls, petitions, etc. In the Colonist article he said that if a "sizeable segment" of the university population protested, he would recommend "more care be taken in acceptance of advertisements" in the future.

If you are part of the sizeable segment that I believe exists, I urge you, whether staff or student, to let Mr. Patterson or Mr. Johnson know by letter, phone call (AMS local is 359) or petition. I expecially urge the latter. It took less than half an hour to put together a petition and post it in my staff room, and people who are too busy to write or call have the opportunity to have their opinion known. By the way, I've never done a petition before, but I think this commercial abuse of women won't stop til people DEMAND it! HELP FIGHT SEXISM!

Offensive ads

Dear Editor,

After reading the University of Victoria Women's Action Group letter concerning ads offensive to women in the November 7th Martlet, we became aware of certain ads in the UVic Directory which are offensive to the male population. Below are several of the most flagrant examples of exploitation of the male character:

1. The Levi ad, pg ii - What is offensive about two males, one nude, the other clothed, riding on a horse? Or for that matter, two females, one nude, one clothed, riding on a horse, or is it a mule? No, maybe it is a donkey. Anyway, who gives a damn whether they, the animal included, are clothed or nude, and what they are riding. We are all nude under our clothes and it is easier to ride than walk.

2. The Harris House of Hides pg v - We believe that men will no longer stand for their bodies to be used for commercial gain. This type of advertisement will not sell products to men, and it will become increasingly more difficult to sell things to women in this way.

3. B.C. Tel, pg UVic 25 - We take offence to B.C. Tel's exclusion of a photo of a male phone user and to the fact that the wording of the ad connotates femininity, and not masculinity to telephone design.

4. Carnabury Boutique pg UVic 26 - We are most offended by this ad. What do they mean by FOR MEN TOO! Are we second class citizens to be mentioned only as an after thought?

5. Bosun's Sea Trek pg 18 yellow - We are appalled at the negative sexist connotation of this ad towards a male biological phenomena.

6. Burks Diamonds pg 22 yellow - We are disappointed by the Burks ad. The thrust of the ad is that of a female imposing her materialistic view of love onto the males value system by ''forcing'' the male to believe his love for her can be represented by an inanimate object. We, as men, are just as capable of emotional love without the trappings of materialism as any woman.

7. London Optical pg 26 yellow - What happened to the men who wear glasses?

We have spoken to other males on campus who are upset about these advertisements. These ads are demeaning to us because they use or exclude men in their product promotions. If this is a technique which advertisers are using, then we, as men, stand against them.

Sincerely yours,

W. Bergen
A. Rydant.

Now hear this

To the Editor of the Martlet:
An open letter to all students.

There is much in the way of activities that take place in this university, and that is good. It is also good that these events be advertised, for if they weren't, how would the students, who are the ones who are to benefit from these activities, ever know if there were something worth going to? What I disagree with, and quite violently, is the way some people behave when it comes to the bulletin boards on this campus. I realize that there is not really enough space to go around, but if used properly, there would be no problem. That is why I wish to propose a set of guidelines with which all should work. They are:

1) Get your poster authorized by the Sub office (I know this is a rule, but some people 'forget').

2) Note the date on the authorisation (which you can set for yourself).

3) When putting up your work of art, be respectful of the works of others. They have a right to be seen, just as you do. If yours is a large poster and you need to move others, move them to a spot where they are as visible as before. If you note any poster that is outdated and in the way, take it down first. Don't block another's posters!

4) Remember the date of your expiration of authorisation. When that date comes, go around and take your old posters down. Old posters are a waste of space, and they are missleading.

I believe that, if people would follow these guidelines, things could be a lot better when it comes to posters.

Yours sincerely
Martin B. Scott

The Necessity For A New Constitution

The proposed new AMS Constitution has received unanimous approval from the Representative Assembly (the elected body of the AMS). Those of you who know anything at all about the Representative Assembly, or about student politics in general, will realize that unanimous votes are extremely rare and are indicative of a very broad and very deep feeling of commitment on the part of each member of the Representative Assembly. The Representative Assembly knows that a new AMS Constitution is the first step to gaining the respect of students on campus.

Constitutions provide the structural backbone of organizations. Constitutions demarcate the rules and procedures of organizations in such a way as to allow these organizations to effectively pursue their objectives. In the case of the Alma Mater Society's Constitution it has become an out-of-date, non-functioning entity which serves only to restrict our operations. The R.A., at present, is to large to be effective and too fractured to be united.

The new R.A. is to be less than one-half the size of the existing R.A.. Selecting candidates on the basis of qualifications and potential rather than on their membership in a minority group (such as exists at present) will vastly improve the collective capability of the R.A.. By reducing the size of the R.A. from 47 to 23 there will be fewer (if any) elections by acclamation. Elections will be held once a year so as to allow the R.A. to establish the direction and momentum that has been missing with the two-elections-a-year system.

The duties of the administrative officers (the so-called 'Executive') have been more clearly defined. The two Athletics positions have been combined into one so as to give the A.M.S. a more unified and responsible voice in the University's Athletics programme. A new position has been created: that of a 'Chief Electoral Officer' who will be responsible solely for the operation of all A.M.S. elections and referendums (of which there will hopefully be more than at present).

Another important aspect of the new Constitution is that it will be easier to amend. It is recognized that times and circumstances change and that our constitution shoulc do like-wise. The process of amendment in the new Constitution is such as to give the A.M.S. increased operational flexibility while still serving as a safeguard for the rights of students.

In essence, then, the proposed new A.M.S. Constitution is what is necessary to get things moving. A.M.S. does have a definite role to play in student and University affairs but it can only do so if its Constitution is realistic and flexible.

Please do your part to ensure that the proposed A.M.S. Constitution is approved! Thank-you!

Kirk Patterson

President - A.M.S.

P.S. If you have any questions about the new Constitution or if you would like a copy then please come and see me in the S.U.B...

A comment on the name game

By JK

A recent ad in the Martlet by the AMS inquired as to whether readers knew what Alma Mater meant. Four answers were given and the reader was asked to pick the correct one. Having taken Arabic 211 last year the answer jumped immediately into my mind: Alma or Almah - an Egyptian belly dancer. Alma Mater, therefore, was the mother of an Egyptian belly dancer.

Definitions have always fascinated me, for example if to 'Know' (Biblical) means to 'have sexual intercourse with' does 'know thyself' infer an invitation to an act of extreme physical dexterity?

Is an Egyptologist a man who digs older women, or is he just a mummy's boy? Is an asserter an over-amourous Italian? Is a millioniare the opposite of a rocky feller? Does freezing points refer to a topless barmaid in Alaska? Is a fairy a person who strenuously denies that a miss is as good as a male? Is fairy-land any point within half a mile of the Churchill? Can a flatchested girl be described as Twiggonometrical? Was Cinderella a front girl for a shoe fetishist operation masterminded by an old fairy?

And finally many definitions become obvious if one follows a pattern, for example:

Adult - a person who is supposed to know what he or she is doing.
Adulterer - the person who does it
Adultery - it.

To The Members of The Student Association:

Take notice that the first election by members of the Student Association of two members of the Board of Governors of the University of Victoria will be held on 20 December 1974. Ballots are to be mailed to members on 6 December 1974.

A full-time graduate student is defined as a student who is a member of the Graduate Student's Society and who is registered in good standing as a full-time student in a programme leading to a Master's or a Doctor's degree at the University of Victoria.

The Election Register is open to inspection by all members of the Student Association in the office of the Registrar, 4th floor, Library, during the period for making nominations, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. , Monday to Friday , except on 11 November.

Housing

CO-OPERATIVE HOUSING

Due to the work of Bob Spears, initially, there has, through Housing Services, been a rotating loan fund set up. This will allow mature, and graduate students to set up a co-operative house. Money will be loaned to cover the first couple months rent if students wish to set up a co-op house in Victoria. Interested students can see Mrs. Baker, Housing Services, Lansdowne 107. Interested? Look into it!

ON CAMPUS HOUSING

The Senate Campus Planning Committee has recommended to the Board of Governors, an increase in their Capital Budget, to be allocated for more on campus housing. This year it will be concerned with single dormitory type residence. Also considered, (by allocating some money) was to look into married students housing on campus in the next few years. This will attempt to solve the housing crisis that was encountered this year.

STILL HAVING A HOUSING PROBLEM?

Housing Services should be contacted, situations are available at present, check them out!

The AMS is trying to keep you informed and is working on the existing housing shortage.

Flu shots cheap

By Les Leyne

One of the lesser-known services offered by the Student Health Services Clinic are the influenza shots they administer for the nominal sum of $1.50.

These shots are 80 per cent effective in preventing the flu from laying you to waste. One medium size needle is stuck in your arm by an efficient, soothing nurse and its over in seconds. It doesn't hurt.Honest.

According to the nurse a new strain of flu develops every year. This new type is impervious to all the old vaccines and it usually takes some time to develop a new vaccine that will work against it. This means that the flu shot they are selling this year is good only against last years flu...however,if you do catch this years flu, the shot makes the effects minimal.

Although there is no money back guarantee that you will not catch the flu, its good to know that those courageous little antibodies are on guard. They last for months so you only need one shot and you're good for the whole winter.

Not only do you lower the risk of catching the flu, your marks will hopefully benefit since there will be no excuse for missing classes when winter sets in.

All this for only $1.50. Its amazing. Get yours today at the Health Services Clinic in the southeastcorner of the parking lot below the Commons building. You'll be glad you did.

If you go out in the woods today...

Man has always been fascinated by the strange plants that appear mysteriously after a rain.

He has used them in devilish brews and concotions; Fairies were said to dance around them; and of course, they have always gone well with steak.

The various wooded areas around Victoria are great for mushroom hunting but a good guide as to what species are edible is essential.

Mushrooms of North America by O.K. Miller, The Savory Wild Mushroom by Margaret McKenny, and Mushroom Hunter's Field Guide by A.H. Smith are all good.

Russian singers in Victoria

By Robert Hazard

Two of the USSR's biggest opera stars appeared in concert at the McPherson on Hovember 5th: Yevhenia Mirosheicheno, celebrated coloratura from the Ukraine and Dmytro Hnatiuk, baritone and leading artist of the Shevchenko State Opera and Ballet Theatre in Kiev, sang to an audience of about 700.

In terms of musicianship and dramatic ability , both artists faired well. Their enthusiastic audience rewarded them with intermittent bravos throughout the program.

Miss Miroshnichenko has a regal bearing and her stage presence adds much to her overall performance. Vocally, the coloratura soprano has a small, thin voice and tended to be throaty due to mixed registration. Her trills were not run on a true vibrato and here the throatiness was even more pronounced as she controlled the voice to manufacture her chosen effects. Her extreme top tones were pinched and constricted, much as those heard too often today as a substitution for the real thing: free, open tones.

Mr. Hnatiuk was definitely the stronger performer, both dramatically and vocally, though his singing technique was often faulty. His tones did not always increase in volume as the normal intensity line of the voice increased. He too, closed off and pushed the top. At times he reverted to a quasi-falsetto that is an appalling practice for a singer who has gained his reputation in opera, and is a tactic which should be confined to the parlour. He allowed some freedom in the extreme low notes, which indicates that Mr. Hnatiuk does have a voice and it is in quite good repair; but this condition won't last long if he contuines to croon like the idols of radio andsilver screen.

Duets could have been the highlights, but Hnatiuk's voice was bigger than the soprano's and he succumbed to crooning and closing his voice off and poor usage of them , the opera duets were not better than ineffective. The folk duets were cute and intimate but as exponents of opera singing, the Kiev Duo were a mile off the gold standard. My applause and a standing ovation from the house was a response to their Showmanship.

FILM , OPERA & SYMPHONY

"Odessa File"

By Bill Schmuck

The Odessa File is a suspenseful spy thriller. It has all the ingredients of a Michael Caine flick, but it is different. It is slow moving in the manner of Day of the Jackel, and is much like that film, both films being more concerned with theme rather than with characters.

The performances of the stars, Jon Voight and Maxmillian Schell, are strong but low-keyed. Jon Voight plays Peter Millar, a German freelance reporter. Working in Hamburg in 1963, he chances upon the diary of an old German Jew who had recently committed suicide. The diary contains a highly moving account of the old man's years as a prisoner at Riga Concentration Camp. It also paints a sharp and ugly portrait of the camp's commandant, Edouard Roschman. As Millar reads the diary, we see what he is reading in a starkly photographed black and white flashback. Roschman (Maximillian Schell) is shown to be a sadistic murderer. He kills the old Jew's then young wife, and the Jew swears revenge. He never succeeds in bringing Roschman to justice, but he does spot him in Hamburg in 1963. He reports the sighting to the police but it is dismissed out of hand. The old man gases himself in despair. Jon Voight decides to track down Roschman to avenge the dead Jew.

The audience is then taken on a cloak and dagger tour of modern Germany as Peter Millar attempts to infiltrate the Odessa, an active organization of ex-S.S. officers.

The film seems to move so slowly that it is frustrating. Not that it's boring - it's not. In fact the slow building suspense keeps you on the edge of your seat, to coin a phrase. The movie has a very European 'feel' to it. Subtitles would have seemed natural had there been any. The film's subtle and controlled action is so unlike the usual fast and furious American or British spy thriller.

It is very much a director's movie. The actors are all firmly reigned and their personalities are not allowed to destroy the carefully created atmosphere. Director Ronald Neame controls the action to enhance the documentary style of his film, and he does this effectively.

Reviews of The Odessa File have been mostly bad. The critics cited the fact that Jon Voight was out of place in the role, and that the film's pace is too slow. They find fault in comparing it to other spy thrillers. But The Odessa File does not follow strictly the usual thriller format. Rather than follow this old tried and true formula plot, Ronald Neame has attempted to put new life in the old vehicle. His movie may not have succeeded completely, but it is an effort well worth seeing.

By Robert Hazard

Denis Brott, a brilliant Canadian cellist, appeared with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra at the Royal Theatre on Nov. 3 and 4.

Brott displayed a depth and maturity in his musical expression that is uncommon in a young artist of limited experience.

Brott is a dynamic and commanding concert artist. His virtuosity and feel for the music indicate future greatness.

His tonal size varied appreciably, adding contrast and colour to his performance. I was impressed by his softest dolcissimo passages. These tones were of impeccable clarity and precision.

The selections played by Brott were Concerto for Cello in A Minor by Saint-Saens and Rococo Variations for Cello and Orchestra by Tchaikovsky.

The Symphony played with greater unity and abandon that in previous outings this season. Midsummer Night's Dream Overture, penned by Mendelssohn, was executed with delicacy and commanding grace. Brahms' Symphony No. 3 in F Major was tastefully chosen to round out the evening. The pice is not one of Brahms' heavier selections and the overall mood evoked by the piece is one of peace and wellbeing.

Victoria writer teaching at Western

By Dave Curran

Alice Munro, Western's writer in residence holds the belief that the ability to write can not be taught. 'A young writer should get out and work at it rather than sit in a creative writing class, she said.

For Munro, a former Western student and now a highly successful Canadian writer there doesn't seem to be any connection between her formal education and her achievements in the field of writing.

Munro, who described herself as 'Gypsyish' felt that she wouldn't like to be a full-time professor anywhere.

'I can really only direct my energy in one direction and that is in writing', she said.

She is now working on a fourth novel. Her first novel entitled 'Lives of Girls and Women' won the Canadian Booksellers Association International Book Year Award.

The chances for a writer to be successful in Canada are very good she feels, with today there being present, many small subsidized publishing companies, as well as money available from the Canada Council for writers.

Her highly acclaimed pieces of fiction are not conceived completely in her imagination but come largely from her previous experiences in life. She said that there is never any inventing in her writing but the characters and settings are combinations of encounters that have been experienced in both the east and west parts of Canada over the past few years.

Munro...from p. 11

Asked about the rewards connected with writing, Munroe said 'One can make a living at it in journalism and once you've made a real name for yourself like Mordecai Richler for instance, then it is excellent.'

She went on to say 'personally speaking it is of course extremely rewarding as well as being a very lonely, insecure and frustrating profession'.

When working on a new piece, Munroe will work through first draft writing so many pages a day.

'No matter if it is good material or poor', she said, 'after a lot I sometimes suddenly see how things will fall into place'.

Naturally after completing the first and most difficult draft she writes and rewrites until things go together with a great deal of quadering and toilsome efforts. 'It is very ardous work being a writer', she said, 'but it is also extremely pleasurable.'

Speaking about the effort involved in writing she added, 'If something isn't working out for someone it may likely be from a lack of interest or excitement.'

Munroe in her writing prefers to use a straightforward style of symbolism. She explained there is no conscious effor on her part to use symbolism. She explained there is no conscious effort on her part to notions.

Talented in both the novel and short story, Munroe's first book of stories 'Dance of the Happy Shades' won the Governor General's Award for fiction in 1968. Her latest collection of short stories 'Something I've Been Meaning to Tell You' won critical acclaim this year.

Munroe herself loves to read short stories as well as write them. She told of how many writers are looked down upon for consistently writing short stories rather than novels if they have a talent for doing so.

'Novels quite often receive better critical respect', she said, 'simply because there are some that feel they are more worthy in depth'.

To speak with Alice Munroe, it becomes clearly evident that she thoroughly enjoys her craft and finds it a very satisfying profession. Munroe said she's given thought in search of different escape routes to give her a break from writing but that there is alternative.

'Contrary to what some feel', she said, 'I think that writers will continue to write as long as they are still living. I know I always will.'

English department chairman Dr. Tom Collins in his praise of Munroe said, 'Creative writing is not offered as a course at Western and both Alice and I agree that it shouldn't be'. 'Creative writing can't be taught; it has to be learned by doing'. Alice's main function will be to talk to students about their work and in finding a writer in residence who is skilled in both the short story and the novel Western is extremely fortunate.'

BOOKS VIEWS & REVIEWS

Agatha Christie, Remembered Death, 195 pp. Pocket Book, 95 cents.

I have never read an Agatha Christie novel, until now. I have not missed a thing. Remembered death, is a faded afternoon movie, leisurely transferred to paper.

Rosemary drinks poisoned champagne at her birthday party in a public restaurant. Suicide, say the police, who can be conveniently stupid when the plot requires them to be. A year later her husband gets a note telling him it was not suicide, but murder. Gad! He reconvenes the group of guests,minus Rosemary of course, to celebrate the anniversary of her demise. How quaint(Someone slips a little cyanide in his bubbly. The plot thickens. Rosemary and her husband, were of course wealthy. There seems little point in murdering poor people for money. Suspects include, Rosemary's little sister, who, for a subplot, is involved in a Gothic romance with a sinister, handsome, mysterious ex-convict. A private secretary in love with the boss. Haven't I heard this somewhere before? A bumbling housekeeper with a nasty, neer-do-well son. A sneaky member of parliament and his sneaky antiseptic wife. Shades of Profumo. There is even a cameo by a Mandy Rice-Davies type. And of course, INSPECTOR KEMP, who accepted the plain fact that only cases of extreme delicacy, wide publicity, or supreme importance came his way. He has, naturally, a mind like a steel trap, x-ray vision, and is possibly able to leap tall buildings in a single bound, although not called upon to do so in this novel. Fear not, the Gothic romance fares well, the pale heroine and her handsome love breathe sweetly into each other's faces at the end. The dastardly criminals are aprehended. Life goes on, and on, and on. And all I can say is, who cares.

Maury Allen, Bo: Pitching and Wooing, Bantam Books, N.Y. $1.50 paperback, 343 pp.

This biography of baseball personality Bo Belinsky would unlikely interest anyone except baseball fans. Really it is a chronicle of a wasted life. Sadly, it destroys any illusions one may have about the sanctity of baseball and the men who play it. It is not done in the semi-humorous way that Jim Bouton did in Ball Four. Allen, by simply chronicling the life of Bo Belinsky delivers a portrait of a crude, vain hustler, headed directly for deserved obscurity. As a life long baseball fan, the book disturbs me. I have to ask if a flash-in-the-pan player like Belinsky who never was more than a peripheral figure in baseball, deserves to be written about so completely. I have to answer no.

Basketball:

one win one loss

The JV Basketball squad split a pair of games with London Boxing Club over the weekend losing the first one, 76-74 and winning the second 70-66. Coupled with the wins over Capilano and Vancouver City College the week before it brings their won-lost record to four to one. In Saturday night's game Tim McGovern and Homer Hamm led the Viking squad with 18 points apiece. They also tied for rebounding honors with 10 each. Dave Speed was the only other JV in double figures with 11. The score was tied at half-time at 45 all but with less than three minutes to go LBC led by ten. The JV's battled back to within one point but the LBC stall and a crucial foul put LBC up by three with fifteen seconds to go. Kelly Stinson was fouled and he sank the first free throw and though he missed the second one on purpose so the JV squad could attempt another basket, the attempt failed. The second game was another close one with the JV's trailing at the half 39-35. They came out running in the second half and built up a ten point lead and from then on in they led by anywhere from four to ten until the final buzzer. The JV squad showed some balanced scoring with four players hitting for double figures. Dave Speed led the group with 17, followed by McGovern and Stinson with 12, and Drew Thomson chipped in with 10. Speed and McGovern led the rebounders with 9 apiece. The Junior Varsity is at home next week on the 22nd and 23rd against Western Washington Peleis at 4:30.

Rugger

Although the Rugby Club won two games, tied one, and lost one over the weekend, we still need you - either to play and satisfy those bloodthirsty tendencies or to quaff a few ales with Howard Gerwing (he often pays).

The Vikings made it look easy against a Cowichan side which is vastly improved over last year's version. Led by Rookie Ian Benson and 'Clutch' Blades with two tries each, the Vikings had control of the game throughout. Other Viking scorers were Teddy Zinkan and Costa 'The Boot' Penn with tries and B. Kamloops and Rick Couch each accounting for two converts. Cowichan were awarded a rather dubious penalty to make the final score...32-6, for the University. Mr. Penn must also be congratulated for his tactical kicking over the weekend.

The Norsemen ran into their toughest competition for the year. Nanaimo scored early in the second half and very nearly held out for the victory but the Norsemen scored two quick tries in the dying minutes of the game which gave them an 8-4 decision. The tries were by Mike Stewart and Bill Walker.

The Saxons are not winning many games but they are playing well. Velox, who won the game 14-6, said it was their most enjoyable game of this year. Doug Manning after a long layoff scored an exciting try and the whole team are beginning to have a lot of fun.

The Jutes were again short three players but after a rather scrappy game against Velox II's, the score came out even. Terry King, just off the injury list, flashed for the only try of the game. Dave Kroschinsky kicked the other 8 points and the Velox tallied on 4 kicks.

SPORTS

THE LATEST IF NOT THE GREATEST

Ice Hockey

By Dave Eaton

All three games last week were close to the final buzzer.

Two of the games saw the two expansion teams as strong contenders for playoff berths.

In game one on Wednesday the Rooters needed an outburst of four goals in nine minutes of the thire period to defear Team No 1 by a score of 7-4. In game two, Team Poland Pickles and No 2 exchanged goals throughout the game and it ended as a 6-6 tie with Doug Taylor of Poland and Warne nd and Warne of No 2 both getting hat-tricks.

On Thursday night scoring leader Mike Squire scored three times and assisted on another as the Ball Sack Rangers outscored the L.C.B.'s 7-5. Rooters still lead the league with 11 points followed closely by the Ball Sack Rangers with 10. Squire is way out front in the scoring race with 27 points, followed by Metcalf with 15 and Wheeler with 14.

Vikettes in first

UVic Vikettes placed a strong hold on first place in the first division Women's Field Hockey League on Saturday.

A solid passing game was the key to the 5-4 victory over the Pirates, last years league winners. The Vikettes opened well, scoring three goals at the beginning of the first half, one each by Sue Keckalo, Jody Hunter, and Carrie Cruickshank. However displaying the strength they are noted for, the Pirates came back and scored four consecutive goals to end the first half 4-3 in their favour.

The second half belonged entirely to UVic with the forwards applying almost constant pressure on the Pirates goal, Hunter came up with the tying goal. Finally Cruickshank, very politely, sewed up the game by scoring on a breakaway from about thirty yards out. The game was well played by both teams and had it not been for some fine defensive work by Di Whittingham, Hilary Groos and Jan Crook the game could easily have gone to the other team.

It was an exciting game for both players and spectators, and if this teamwork and offensive hustle continues UVic could well be looking for a league title in April.

Allsorts lead

The Allsorts, with 9 goals from Doug Manning, maintained their lead in Division 1 with 8-3 victories over F' Troop and 7-3 over Crusaders. His sterling effort puts Manning right out in front of the scoring race with a total of 17 goals.

The Out To Lunch Bunch defeated Crusaders 2-0 and the Hookers 5-4 to maintain their unbeaten performance and share top spot with the Allsorts.

In Divison 2, last year's champions, Ziggy, tied first place Rats in an epic struggle - both teams scored 6 goals with Rick Krawitz posting the hat trick for Rats. Foster's Fruits defeated the Smokies 5-1 to hold on to their unbeaten record. Pud moved into third place with a narrow 3-2 win over Ziggy, and the Allstars dropped into the basement on a 5-0 loss to the Devils.

The scoring race has both brothers Girard (Zorkin) in 2nd place, each with 9 goals. Vern Jacques (O.T.L.B.) and Lou Purdell (Allsorts) also have 9.

Rowers 3rd

The UVic rowing crews went to the 'Head of the Lake Regatta' in Seattle last weekend to stroke against competition from all over the Pacific Northwest.

The 4000 meter (2½ mile) course was a 'turnaround' race set up in a triangle.

UVic lightweight '8' placed third of eight entries with a time of 10:39 behind first and second Washington Husky crews, setting times of 10:15 and 10:34. UVic managed to come in before their rivals Western Washington 10:42 and U.B.C. 11:55.

U.B.C. 11:55.

The Huskies also took the Heavyweight '8' event in the Junior division with UVic crews placing 8th and 9th of 20 starters with times of 11:17 and 11:46.

Viking Basketball

By Tom Watkinson

The Vikings dropped 2 basketball contests over the week-end against the Golden Bears of U of Alberta in Edmonton.

On Friday night the Vikings were hosed 81 - 59 by the Golden Bears after leading 37 - 32 at the half. The first half belonged to the Vikings as they built up a 20 - 4 lead at one point, behind the hot shooting of rookie Lorne Dakin and Jim Duddridge. Mid-way thru the first frame, however, the Vikings slowly lost their composure and the Bears gradually chipped away at the lead. The Vikings dominated their defensive boards in the first half with Dakin collecting 7 of his 8 rebounds and Lee Edmondson pulling down 5 of his game total of 11 rebounds. Robbie Parris dazzled the crowd with his ball handling and timely passes.

The second half showering was a different story. It belonged to the Bears. Doug Baker scored at will, collecting 14 of his 26 points directly under the basket. The Vikings ran out of steam and were not able to defend against the fast breaking Albertans who gave up only 4 offensive rebounds.

Leading the way for the Vikings were Edmondson with 11 points, Duddridge 10 points Dakin 12 pts., and Parris 10 points.

Saturday night, although the Vikings were again on the losing end of the score, 63 - 58 looked much better.

Down 33 - 25 at the half, the Vikings tied the scored at 50 apiece with 4 minutes remaining in the game. They looked very much in it, but foul shooting proved to be their downfall as they missed some key bonus shots in the closing minutes.

The Vikings shot only 52 per cent from the line, making 16 of 31 of their free throws. They outhustled the Bears on the boards, 38 - 30 with Duddridge leading the way with 10 rebounds and 14 points. Parris turned in another outstanding game with 12 pts. Edmondson potted 10 points and 7 rebounds followed by Dave Mulcahy and Dakin with 8 points apiece.

Next week-end the Vikings host the U. of Calgary Dinosaurs at the UVic Gym. Tip off is at 8:30 both Friday and Saturday night (Nov.22 & 23)

Varsity Team beats Grads

Last weekend the Men's Varsity Basketball Team defeated the UVic Grads twice at the UVic gymnasium.

On Friday, the Vikings nipped the Grads 84-79. Jim Duddridge paced the Vikings with 16 points and 13rebounds. Lee Edmondson collected 15 points and Dale MacDonald came off the bench to pot 12 points in the second half. Strong defensive rebounding which created many fast breaks enabled the Viks to take a 43-38 half-time lead. Robbie Parris and MacDonald sparked the second half surge leading the press and causing numerous turn-overs.

The Grads, however, kept pace with the hot hand of Gord Hoshul's 20 points followed by Brian Craigand Corky Jossul each with 16 and 15 points, respectively.

Doug Mosher, rookie guard of the Viks suffered a charlie horse to his right thigh mid-way through the first half and Pard Hogweide received a cut under his eye in heavy rebounding traffic under the boards.

Saturday night the Vikings breezed by the Grads 82-51. Again Duddridge led in scoring with 20 points and 13 rebounds. Rookie Lorne Dakin looked impressive in collecting 13 points and hauling down 11 rebounds as did Hogweide who crashed the boards for 11 rebounds and 11 points.

The Vikings dominated the boards, outrebounding the Grads 58-30. The Viks started slowly, but once they started hitting the boards they quickly pulled away on easy fast break lay-ins.

A BOY NEEDS YOU

There are dozens of fatherless boys in Victoria and area, badly in need of an adult male's friendship. These boys have no man to teach them how to kick a football, share a hobby with or talk over a problem with. You could provide the friendship and guidance that these boys do not have, by becoming a Big Brother. Why not drop into our office at no.207 - 1029 Douglas St., or call us at 388-4343 and ask about the procedure. We would just love to hear from you.

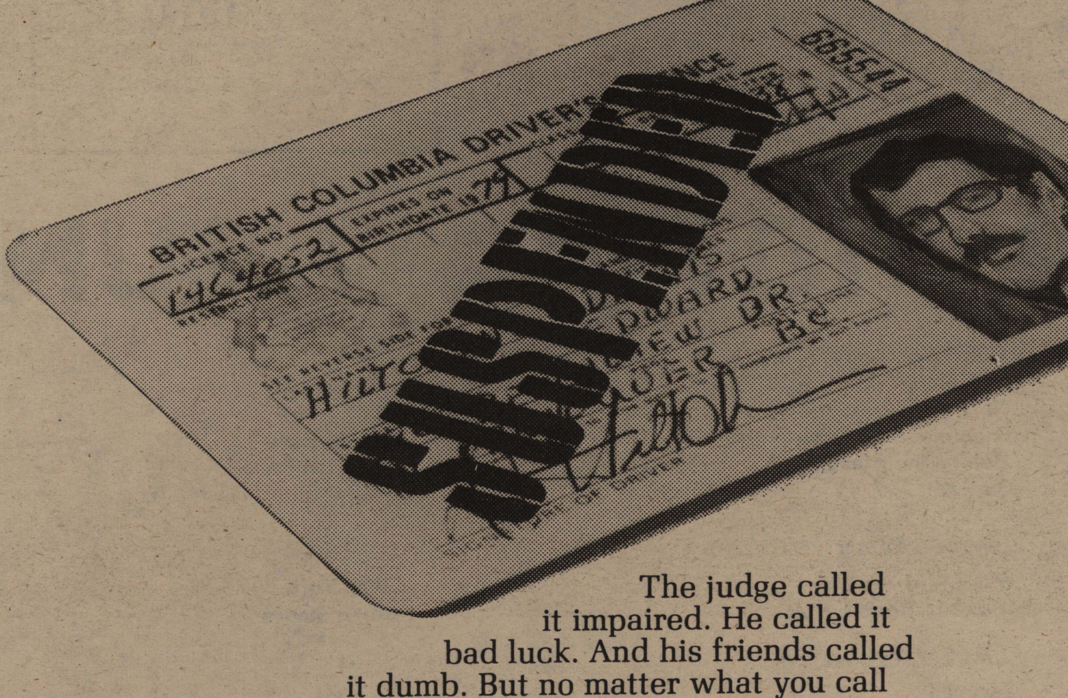
how's this for a sobering thought.



The judge called it impaired. He called it bad luck. And his friends called it dumb. But no matter what you call it, or how you look at it, losing your license for impaired driving is a sobering thought!

Think about it. About how it would affect you . . . your social life . . . and your ability to get around. Losing your license is something to think about . . . before you drink and drive!
